

Council Adds Officer for SHL Gives First O.K. to Upping Taxes

by James Giese

The Greenbelt City Council expects to enter into a public/private partnership agreement with AIMCO, the managers of the Springhill Lake Apartment complex, that will add another officer to the Greenbelt Police Department. The officer will be primarily assigned to patrol in the more than 2,900 unit apartment complex. This was the most significant budget change made by the council at its final budget worksession.

Overall council tentatively agreed to change City Manager Michael McLaughlin's proposed budget by increasing revenues $76,000 and increasing expenditures an equal amount. Left unchanged was McLaughlin's proposal to increase the city property tax rate by four cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Only two citizens showed up at the worksession to observe the council in action and neither appeared to have any special concerns about the budget under consideration.

While this may be the final budget worksession, it is not the end to the budget process.

Public Hearing

On Tuesday, May 27 there will be a second public hearing on the budget. It will be another opportunity for citizens to express their views on the budget. The public hearing will take place during a regular council meeting, but will be at the beginning of the 8 p.m. meeting to be held at the city council room in the Municipal Building. Final budget adoption is scheduled for the regular meeting of June 9. This, too, is a public meeting at which citizens may express their views. While the council usually sticks with the decisions it makes at its final budget worksession, it can still make changes to the budget up until the time it is formally adopted.

The May 27 public hearing will also include the city's proposal to increase its constant yield tax rate. Each year the state calculates the tax rate needed to raise the same dollar amount of revenues as the city levied for the previous years. Since property values usually increase somewhat each year the constant yield tax rate is usually a little bit lower than the tax rate for the previous year. This year property assessments increased by 1.5 percent and a tax rate of 64.7 cents per $100 of assessment will yield the same dollars for the city as last year's 65.6-cent levy. Since the council and manager now propose increasing the tax rate to 69.6 cents, four cents above last year's actual tax levy, they are proposing an increase of 4.9 cents over the constant yield tax rate.

Metro Interchange Called "Pork" by Beltway Plaza

by Virginia Beauchamp

A "scandalous travesty" and "a $24,000,000 to $32,000,000 pork project to benefit one at the expense of the many" – this language is from an April 14 letter from "Kap" Kapistan, general counsel of the Quantum Companies, to the Prince George's County Council committee on Transportation, Housing and Environment. Kapistan, whose company manages the Beltway Plaza, was describing the proposed Beltway interchange to the Greenbelt Metro property that would provide access to the proposed Greenbelt Station development.

A few days earlier, addressing the same committee, County Councilman Thomas R. Hendershot, whose district represents Berwyn Heights and most of College Park, described opposition like Kapistan's as "parochial." In Hendershot's view,

"It is insulting that people from Montgomery County and Howard County have a better Beltway access to the Greenbelt station than the vast majority of Prince Georgians." In his letter of March 25, Hendershot was commenting on the fact that the only direct Beltway exits to and from the Metro station are oriented to the west.

When the station was built, the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) ruled out a full interchange and at the time the city of Greenbelt protested the decision. Now the positions are reversed. The agency seeks a full interchange in order to facilitate commercial development of its parking lot property and the city is opposed.

Delegation Gives Council Legislative Session Update

by Barbara Hopkins

Balancing the budget and slot machines – these were the two issues that dominated the state's recent legislative session, State Senator Paul Pinsky told the Greenbelt City Council at its regular meeting on May 12. Members of the 22nd District Delegation to the Maryland Legislature attended the meeting to participate in the ACE Awards and to give council a legislative update. Pinsky reminded council that the legislature has one constitutional requirement and that is to pass a budget and it had done that along with passing other important legislation. He told council the general fund budget grew by less than 1 percent so there would not be much money for programs that are not line items in the budget.

One bill that passed would close tax loop holes that allow corporations to save money. Pinsky said the governor has indicated he will veto the bill because it would temporarily increase corporate taxes. If the bill is vetoed the budget would require $135 million in cuts to be rebalanced. Pinsky thought the cuts would affect local aid and higher education. If companies get to keep loop holes more companies will use them and revenues will go down further. Next year there is also a projected short-fall and funding for extending the Thornton Commission recommendations will come due. If the Commission recommendations are fully funded, he

by Al Geiger

The proposed budget for the Recreation and Parks Department is $3.89 million or 21 percent of the city budget. Of this amount $3.07 million has been allocated for recreation. At the May 7 work session with the Greenbelt City Council the senior recreation staff gave council a presentation of highlights of the proposed 2004 fiscal year budget. The projected attendance at all city facilities and municipal activities for that year is anticipated to be 527,442.

Administration

Expenditures for salaries and related expenses for the administrative staff in carrying out the city's recreation programs are projected to be $506,600. This staff, with 5.5 full-time equivalent employees, is responsible for planning, management and information services for the city's recreation programs. The department seeks a full-time employee as assistant manager of various facilities, such as the Springhill Lake Recreation Center and the future skate park. Also requested are funds to provide equitable benefits for part-time staff, estimated at about $100,000.

Recreation Centers

Proposed expenditures for the staffing and maintenance of the Youth Center, Springhill Lake Recreation Center and Schrom

Hills Park and construction of the proposed skate park is $355,400. Currently there are 5.8 full-time equivalent employees, two of whom are full time. The skate park, when completed, will be supervised whenever it is open.

The two centers are closed only on Christmas, New Year's Day and Thanksgiving. They are expected to have an attendance of 89,000.

Aquatic/Fitness

The proposed budget for the Greenbelt Aquatic and Fitness Center is $820,000. Revenues of $600,000 are expected to be 72 percent of operating costs. There are 19.7 full time equivalent employees at the center. In winter 60 employees work part time and in the summer 90 are part time. Attendance is projected to be 182,600. The budget proposes a 3 percent increase in pass fees.

Community Center

The Community Center proposed budget is $561,600. With an income of $240,700 from the rental fees of 38 civic groups and a large variety of other renters such as sports teams, churches and private parties and special events such as elections, the Greenbelt New Year and blood drives, the facility is 43 percent self-supporting. Get into the Arts

Artful Afternoon: New Exhibit + Family Art

On Sunday, June 1, Greenbelters of all ages are invited to enjoy free art activities at the Community Center. The Recreation Department’s Artful Afternoon program will include a workshop from 1 to 4 p.m. in which individuals, families and friends can create floating artwork for presentation at Buddy Attick Park in conjunction with the Fourth of July fireworks over Greenbelt Lake. All materials will be provided and no art experience is required.

From 2 to 4 p.m. the public is invited to attend an opening reception for a new exhibition at the Community Center art gallery. “DataPaint,” an installation by Ann Stoddard, responds to the contemporary social climate in which surveillance and personal/behavioral tracking measures are increasingly common. Drawing on the history of the gallery as an elementary school classroom in a planned community built and operated by the federal government in the 1930s, DataPaint presents a reconstructed art classroom as a site for 21st century identity data collection.

Additional activities on June 1 will include a studio open house with the Community Center’s artists in residence and tours of the Greenbelt Museum’s historic home, both from 1 to 5 p.m. The Greenbelt Museum’s new exhibit featuring the cartoons of Isadore “Izzy” Parker will be open to the public. Beautiful and functional ceramics will be available throughout the afternoon with Greenbelt Pottery, Inc. The Greenbelt Concert Band will add a musical touch to the program with a performance on the Community Center lawn at 3 p.m.

“DataPaint” is the artist’s first classroom installation. She has exhibited her work nationally in 13 solo shows and 50 juried and invitational group exhibitions. Her recent exhibitions include solo shows in Washington D.C. and Cleveland, group exhibitions in Georgia, New Jersey, Virginia and Maryland. Stoddard has received grants from the Maryland State Arts Council, the Cafritz Foundation, the Virginia Center for the Creative Arts, the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts and the Prince George’s County Arts Council. She has taught full-time at three universities and served as adjunct faculty or visiting artist at several institutes of art.

Artful Afternoons are a monthly series sponsored by the City of Greenbelt, Department of Recreation. The Greenbelt Community Center is located at 15 Crescent Road. For additional information call 301-397-2208. This event is sponsored in part by the Maryland State Arts Council, the Prince George’s Arts Council and the PG Super Circle.

Create Sculpture from Food

“Food: we need it; we eat it; but create sculptures with it? When you think ‘A Banquet of the Sculptures,’ you may have to recreate your concept of sculpture materials.”

On Sunday, June 8, Greenbelt Day weekend, at the Roosevelt Center festival organized by Greenbelt Association for the Visual Arts (GAVA), everyone is invited to “dig-in” to an activity that is sure to bring out creativity, engineering know-how, patience, laughter and community spirit. From 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. edible food will be available for building a sculpture, based on the theme of “Home.” Design a house in a literal sense, create an emotional sculpture of one’s household, past or present, or make a sculpture of what “home means to you,” all by using only edible foods. Complement the sculptures by adding to the items provided. The Greenbelt Coop Supermarket is sponsoring this project with a donation of supplies. The Co-op Supermarket and convenience stores will be open for that last minute inspiration.

Tom Baker, Greenbelt resident artist, will lead this activity. Volunteers are needed to prepare food for the sculptures, assist participants in setting up and in cleaning up. Call Baker at 301-474-6525 to volunteer.

“You may also choose to create your edible food sculpture at home,” says Baker and bring it completed to the festival between 1:30 and 3:15 p.m. Photos of all sculptures will be taken and awards announced. Then all participants who wish may contribute their artwork for the community to eat to “A Banquet of the Sculptures.”

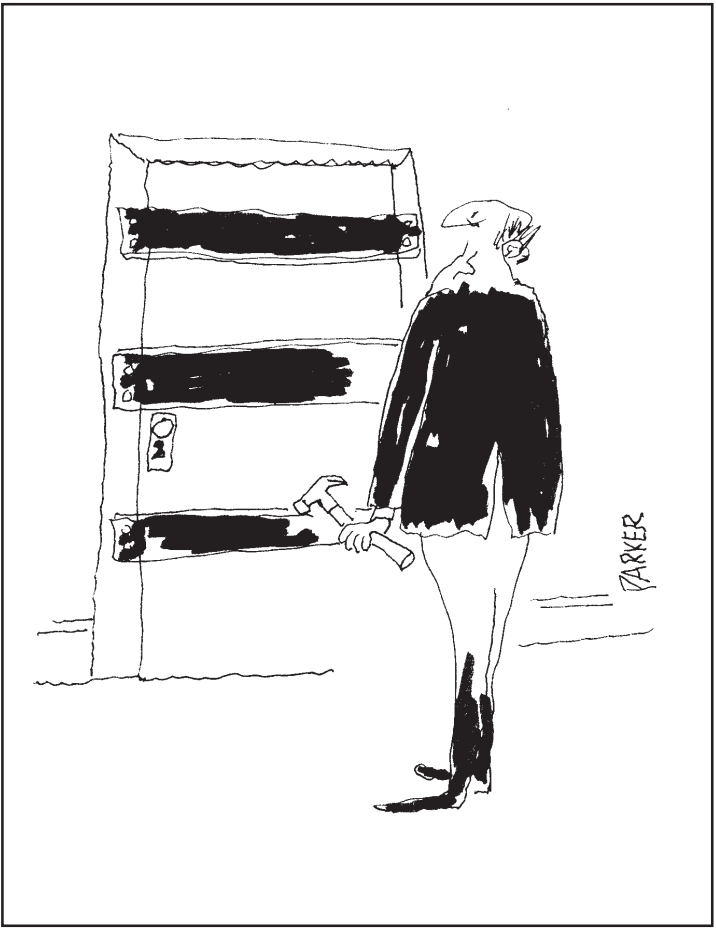

"DataPaint" Surveillance

A new art exhibit will open at the Greenbelt Community Center on June 1, featuring a site-specific installation by conceptual artist Ann Stoddard. In “DataPaint,” as the work is titled, an elementary school art classroom in a utopian planned community provides the context for 21st century identity data collection. In creating this work, the artist has responded to the history of the gallery itself as a former elementary school classroom and to the history of Greenbelt as a utopian planned community build by the federal government in the 1930s. The public is invited to attend an opening reception on Sunday, June 1, from 2 to 4 p.m.

In the words of the artist, “art meets Utopia and Dystopia” in this work. Stoddard comments, “Following September 11, national security programs are increasingly infringing on individual rights, as the profile of suspects fluctuates and we/they become almost indistinguishable.” “DataPaint” examines the implications of contemporary security strategies such as the Defense Department’s proposed TIA (Total Information Awareness) program with its goal of tracking individuals through life. Video surveillance in public places has become prevalent in Greenbelt and throughout the country. Fingerprinting of elementary school children is routine in some communities, including Washington, D.C. In “DataPaint,” class photos are digitized as educational technology intersects with research technology and finger painting with identity tracking.

“DataPaint” will remain on view through July 6. The gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily, whenever the room is not reserved for special use. The Greenbelt Community Center is located at 15 Crescent Road. For additional information call 301-397-2208. This exhibit is sponsored in part by the Maryland State Arts Council, the Prince George’s Arts Council and the PG Super Circle.

With Mykal Brown and Jeff Cheney getting on base in three out of four at-bats, they each scored three times. Mikey Kerdock led the RBI race with six RBIs in four at-bats. Buck Robison had two RBIs; Jon Butler and Chris Roy had one each.

Delonte Horton pitched four innings, getting the win. Mikey Kerdock closed out the last two innings to get the save.

All three aspects of the game were put together by the Rockets: pitching, timely hitting and strong fielding. The good fielding was led by Dan Dorsey who threw out two runners from the outfield, plus Buck Robison’s five assists and two put-outs from three infield positions.

The Rockets will play a doubleheader versus Lake Shore at noon on May 24, a road game with Bowie on May 28 and a doubleheader at Gambrills on May 31.

In Memoriam

Remembering Charles J. Mills, My Father

by Monica Mills Johnston

My father was born in 1926 in Philadelphia. He lost both of his parents when he was very young and he and his sister Betty went to live with their grandparents. He was blinded in the left eye as a young boy.

My father was spoiled and “quite a handful” according to many in his family. He was the only boy living in a house full of females. As a young boy, it was his job to go next door and bring his grandfather and uncles home from the bar.

He sold newspapers on the streets of Philly, fought in school and was reprimanded by the nuns. He was a lifeguard in the summers.

Because he could swim, he and his friends were able to save the life of one young boy when two of them fell into a pond down by the railroad yard. He was given a gold watch, a parade and a mighty beating from Grandmom who had told him never to go down to the rail yard.

My father was a soldier. At 17, he wanted to enlist in the Army, but wasn’t old enough. Aunt Edith went to the enlistment office and told them that he was old enough to know his age and if he said he was 18 then he was. He memorized the eye chart while waiting his turn in line and passed the eye exam and joined the U.S. Army Military Police. He served in Italy, Germany, Korea and stateside.

My father was also an animal lover. As an MP in Germany he trained and handled police dogs. When he left his dog, Alcott, with a friend for a day he met with the wrath of another animal lover. Seeing the dog tied in a courtyard during a bad storm, Gudrun Humanik brought the dog to her office. My father received a severe tongue-lashing and fell in love with this woman, my mother.

My parents were married in Philadelphia in 1951. After ten years of marriage, they had two children, my sister and me. He was a wonderful father.

He retired from the Army as a master sergeant after 23 years so he wouldn’t be shipped overseas again and so we could have a permanent home.

My father was a Capitol Hill police officer for 20 years. I felt much pride as a young girl saying that my daddy was a policeman. He always wore a uniform, a badge and a gun. I remember going to the Hill and watching him mingle with Congressmen. Everyone we met respected him.

My father was president of the Center School PTA and the Lakeside Citizens Association. He was involved in everything that affected my sister and me.

He joined the Greenbelt Lions Club because they “helped the needy and the blind.” He was also a 35-year member of Post 136 Greenbelt American Legion, a lifetime member of the Disabled American Veterans and a Past Master Mason.

My father took the neighborhood children and later other children from school with us when their parents couldn’t or wouldn’t take them. No child who wanted to go to Pappy’s or Wylie’s Ice Cream parlor after a school basketball game was turned away.

My father was a Redskin’s fan. Every Sunday, you could hear him yelling, sitting on the edge of the couch downstairs, biting his fingernails, hoping they would manage to pull it off this week. Dinner always waited until the game was over.

My father was a romantic. For my mother’s birthday and anniversary, he would bring her roses and strawberry shortcake to share with all the women in her office.

My father was so proud of his grandchildren. My children spent many days at my parents’ home. When he retired from the Hill in 1986, he was with us constantly.

After he retired, my father was a Greenbelt Center Bum. Every morning, he would leave the house early, hang out in the Center and drink coffee and argue with the other bums. Around 9, he would come home with fresh donuts, rolls and his newspaper.

To all who knew him, he was a kind and loyal friend. He liked to have good times, the more the merrier. Any stranger was welcome and anyone in need was taken care of.

There were quite a few people who would live with us as I grew up. Young people who needed a supportive family around. My Aunt Gaby, Connie, Boyd and Roland. Roland [Sheck, a severely wounded Vietnam veteran who had immigrated from Germany] became a son to my parents and a brother to us.

My father always wanted to live on the shore. When we finally convinced my mother to retire and move to Florida, it was his dream come true. But it didn’t last. Maybe it was being away from the kids and grandkids, maybe it was this terrible illness creeping in. When my parents moved back home we knew something was terribly wrong.

Daddy reduced his activities. He didn’t feel comfortable talking in public anymore. My children were uncomfortable riding with him in the car. All of a sudden things were different.

He fought us so hard when we had to take his car keys away. His independence gone, he felt useless. Throughout this terrible illness, my father remained as sweet and congenial as always.

I want all of us to remember the man my father was. My father was Charles James Mills, Charlie, Chaz, Sarge, Bubby, Pop-Pop, Daddy, Honey and Friend.

[Charles Mills, 76, died May 11, 2003 of health complications resulting from Lewy body dementia. He is survived by his wife, Gudrun (former Greenbelt City Clerk), two daughters, Monica (Andrew) Johnston and Regina (Timothy) Murphy, grandchildren James, Joseph, Chelsey and Shawn, a sister, Betty Lehman of Pompano Beach, Fla., and his adopted son, Roland Sheck. A granddaughter, Jessica, preceded him in death.

A memorial service was held at Holy Cross Lutheran Church on May 17. Funeral services will be held on June 12 at 10:15 a.m. at Fort Myer Chapel, Arlington, Va. with internment following at Arlington Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Hospice of the Chesapeake, 8424 Veteran’s Highway, Millerville, MD 21108 or to the Lions Club of Greenbelt, PO Box 677, Greenbelt, MD 20768.]

A Second Father to Me

by PJ Siegel

I joined the Greenbelt Lions Club in the year that Lion Charlie Mills served as deputy district governor. I went on a lot of club visitations that year and everyone knew Charlie Mills! He was a man everyone liked and trusted (except perhaps the bad guys). He exemplified service – by serving in the U.S. Army, on Capitol Hill as a police officer and for 31 years as a valued Lion.

I have known Charlie Mills since I was five years old. He would remind me how audacious I was then when I asked if he had any kids. He was thinking of buying the house at 11 Maplewood Court across the street. It turned out that he and Gudi did have kids (Monica and Gina) who were only a couple of years younger than I. Charlie Mills is the closest thing to a second father I had. I always felt safe at his house. I have often wondered if part of my reason for going into the military was because of him.

I’ll never forget being outside playing in a thunderstorm. Charlie had to drag me into his house because I was telling him my mom said it was OK for me to play in the rain. I knew nothing of the dangers of lightning, but he, of course, did. I was always welcome in Charlie and Gudi’s home.

I remember Charlie at the Center, as a Center Bum – people who used to sit at the Center and drink coffee everyday. Whenever I saw him there I would stop to chat for a few minutes.

At one of these chats in 1988 I mentioned to Charlie that I had heard the Lions were finally allowing women to join as full members. I knew Charlie was a Lion. He and my Dad were Lions while I was growing up.

Anyway, Charlie said he would be honored to sponsor me for membership. This was back when many men in most clubs were resistant to the idea of a woman joining the “men’s club.” I thought there would be opposition, but there wasn’t any. Maybe that was because of my sponsor. Because I went on so many club visitations, I got to know a lot of other great Lions in a lot of other clubs as well. I owe so much of this to Lion Charlie Mills.

I will miss him. We’re proud to be Lions because, in part, we were touched and led by the example of a great Lion, Past King Lion and Deputy District Governor Charles J. Mills.

Community Service

by Jack Maffay

Lion Charlie Mills joined the Greenbelt Lions Club in April 1971. Charlie was an active, involved member for over 30 years. In District 22-C, Charlie had the honor of serving as Lieutenant Governor in the 1988-89 administration of District 22-C Governor Sid Penning-ton. He also served in the district as a deputy district governor and zone chairman. He was a Roaring Lion.

At the club level, he held virtually every leadership or board position including director, visitation chairman, audit committee chairman, chairman of the Labor Day Festival food concession booth, bike and trike activity chairman, blood drive chairman, fruit cake sales, white cane sales, 22-C convention delegate several times, 1st, 2nd and 3rd vice presidents, as well as serving as president twice. When he wasn't serving in a leadership role, he actively participated in fund raising drives and service activities such as Lions World Service Day, DARE, Adopt-a-Park and the Christmas toys for children drive. He also sponsored six new members. Throughout his service, Lion Charlie worked diligently to improve our community and help the Lions of District 22-C improve the health and welfare of citizens in our area. He always displayed an infectious enthusiasm whenever he undertook a project.

Lion Charlie spent his whole life serving others both professionally and personally. He served in our nation's armed services and then, after retiring, as a Capitol Hill policeman.

Charlie will be missed by all who came in contact with him and experienced his cheerful, helpful attitude.

POLICE BLOTTER

Based on information released by the Greenbelt Police Department. Dates and times are those when police were first contacted about incidents.

Attempted Murder

7900 block Vanity Fair Drive, May 15, 6:15 p.m., a woman had just come home from shopping and was about to enter the front door of her residence when a man approached from behind and forced her into the house. Two other men then entered the house behind them. One punched another resident of the house several times while the other displayed a sawed-off shotgun and demanded money. That man fired the gun into a wall above one of the two other residents home at the time. The suspects then searched the house for money, firing a second shot into another wall. Finding no money, they fled in a vehicle described as a black mid-90s Chevrolet Caprice station wagon, Md. temporary tag 16197E. The suspects are described as (1) a black male, 15 to 20, 5'11", thin, medium complexion, wearing a dark blue long-sleeved shirt, blue jeans and a red ski mask; (2) a black male, 15 to 20, 5'9", medium build, wearing a white T-shirt, blue jeans and a black bandanna, armed with what appeared to be a 9 mm. semiautomatic handgun, and (3) a black male, 15 to 20, 5'9", medium build and medium complexion, wearing a white T-shirt, blue jeans and a black and white bandanna.

Sexual Assault

She got in her vehicle and was about to lock the door when the man opened it. The victim offered the suspect her car keys, but as he forced her to the passenger seat he threatened to stab her if she made any noise and made motions as if he was going to sexually assault her. At this time the victim got the passenger door open, fell to the ground and began yelling for help. The man then fled the scene toward Cherrywood Lane. He is described as a black male in his twenties, 6', medium build, hair in a bush style, wearing all dark clothing. The victim was not physically injured.

Weapons

A computer check showed that he had an open arrest warrant with the Sheriff's Department. Police found a loaded Ruger .45 caliber semiautomatic handgun in the vehicle. The youth was released to the Department of Corrections for a hearing before a District Court Commissioner and for service of the warrant.

said, Prince George’s County, the biggest recipient, would receive $900 million over six years. Pinsky said he considered his vote on the Thornton Commission bill his most significant vote in 17 years in the legislature.

Slot Machines
Pinsky said he opposed the slot machine legislation because he did not consider it good public policy. He also thought it did not provide enough money to public education and that an overly-generous amount of generated funds would have gone to owners of race tracks where slot machines would be located. Even if it had passed it would only have provided half of the funds necessary for the Thornton commitment. He told council he expects the bill to come back next year. Later Delegate Anne Healey said that she expects there to be a public hearing on slot machines when the bill comes up again, indicating that she felt public involvement had initially been too limited.

Other Legislation
A bill supported by Greenbelt that was passed by the legislature permits municipalities to purchase and use speed cameras in residential areas and school zones. This bill has not yet been signed and Pinsky said there is speculation that the governor will veto it. The bill’s final status should be known in about two weeks, he added.

The city supported a bill to increase the surcharge on new developments for education and this bill had also passed. Two bills sponsored by Pinsky that would help protect the environment were passed, but the governor had not yet signed either and Pinsky did not know if he would. One bill would require appliances sold in Maryland to meet certain energy efficiency standards. This would reduce dependency on fossil fuels and provide cleaner air. The other bill would improve water quality by requiring the state Department of the Environment to more aggressively pursue polluters. Members of council and members of the delegation spoke with appreciation to one another for their mutual efforts in establishing a viable working relationship during the first year that Greenbelt has been in the 22nd district. Healey, in her thanks to the city and its residents, said it was “very refreshing to have so many activists” and “wonderful to have so many people engaged in the process.”

Delegate Justin Ross said he wants to continue to work with Greenbelt on municipal zoning authority. He added his number one commitment is full funding for the Thornton Commission proposal.

Delegate Tawana Gaines had intended to be at the meeting also, but a sudden family illness kept her away.

Councilmember Thomas White told the delegation that the budget process just ending was the most difficult one he could recall of the 30 he had worked on since becoming a councilmember. He said the state cannot continue to lay responsibility for citizens’ basic services on local governments. He asked the delegation to pursue sharing of state revenues with local governments. Mayor Judith Davis supported White’s statement, saying the city could not survive any more cuts such as those that occurred this past year. She said deficit spending may work on a federal level, but she thought there should be a re-thinking of policies that cut taxes yet increase expenditures. Homeowners cannot always be expected to foot the bill, she said.

ficer in the police department to patrol in Springhill Lake is contingent upon the city obtaining a $25,000 COPS (community oriented police) grant from the federal government, which city staff believes is doable. AIMCO will kick in $45,000 a year or more, up to $55,000, for three years. Added budget cost to the city is $80,000 but, with the grant money and Springhill Lake money, the net amount of cost that the city needs to pick up is only $10,000. Regional Property Manager for Springhill Lake Apartments, Joe W. Raker told the city, “It is always a positive step forward when the City of Greenbelt can joint venture with the private sector to improve the services of the community.”

The council also agreed to continue funding a red light camera for southbound Kenilworth Avenue at Cherrywood Lane. McLaughlin proposed removing this light because fines from violations photographed from the camera were paying only a third of the camera’s operating costs. This change increased revenues by $10,000, but increased expenses $30,000.

Council agreed to increase the fees charged to residents for the use of a variety of park and recreation facilities such as the Attick Park group picnic facility, the pavilion at Schrom Hills Park, renting the Youth Center, Springhill Lake Recreation Center and Community Center gymnasiums and for special events, resulting in an added revenues of $4,000 for the budget. On the other hand, council restored proposed cuts in the hours of operation of recreation facilities for an added expense of $4,500.

Because it was told by the groups involved that their grants were not needed this year, council cut out the proposed grants for the Golden Age Club and the Greenbelt Writers Group for a budget savings of $5,300. These are one time cuts. Council made another budget savings of $2,000 by eliminating the operation of the Greenbelt Connection on Sundays after 1:30 p.m.

These changes left the budget out of balance by $32,200. Council cut the reserve set aside for unforeseen contingencies by that amount, leaving $26,000 for such emergencies. Should that prove to be insufficient, the city can draw down on its unallocated fund balance (surplus), currently estimated to be over $2.8 million at the end of this fiscal year.

McLaughlin warned council that Governor Robert Ehrlich has not yet approved all the state budget legislation. The governor has until Tuesday to either sign or veto legislation that, if not approved, could mean further cuts in state aid to the city and other local governments.

On the plus side, McLaughlin also noted that under the municipal tax differential formula Greenbelt taxpayers will receive a small reduction in their county property tax rates.

fied rental fee increases for use of space in the Community Center are anticipated. There are 4.5 full-time employees and 4.1 full-time equivalent part-time employees.

A major projected expense for the Community Center will be replacement of the windows in the original part of the building. As now planned, work will begin in the senior game room as a demonstration project.

Special Programs

Greenbelt Kids provides enrichment and socialization for children between one and 14 years of age when county schools are not in session. These programs include six summer and school-year camps, after-school programs, workshops, preschool classes and other non-arts based activities. For these programs expenditures of $300,200 have been projected along with revenues of $415,100. Income is 138 percent of expenditures. Attendance is projected to be 36,717.

Therapeutic recreation, which provides recreational opportunities for individuals with special needs, including the elderly and persons with disabilities, has a proposed budget of $115,000. Revenues of $21,500 from grants and trip fees and senior nutrition fees are about 19 percent of the budget. Attendance is projected to be 22,500.

Greenbelt is the only municipal recreation department in suburban Maryland with a full-time certified therapeutic recreation specialist.

With proposed expenditures of $105,000 and $23,500 in class fees and league revenues of $35,000, the adult leisure and fitness program is 57 percent self-supporting. Activities include adult sports leagues, teen trips, performing arts classes, fitness classes and workshops for individuals 13 years of age or older. There are 1.6 full-time equivalent employees in this program.

Arts and Events

Projected expenditures for the arts are $144,900. Revenues from fees and grants are projected to be $67,000 or 46 percent of expenditures. Staffing is 2.7 full-time equivalents. Projected attendance is 28,234.

Activities include Sunday Artful Afternoons, arts education, an arts emerge program, city stage performances and exhibitions.

The proposed budget for special events is $160,000. Over 15 special events in Greenbelt include Independence Day fireworks, the Labor Day Festival and the Festival of Lights. Attendance is projected to be over 20,000.

eral documents submitted prior to the transportation committee’s work session on April 15 in Upper Marlboro. The committee’s purpose was a briefing by the State Highway Administration (SHA) on final project planning for the interchange and the decision to expand the study area eastward to the Baltimore-Washington Parkway and westward to the county line at I-95. Previous boundaries of the study had been drawn at Kenilworth Avenue and U.S. 1.

Issues concerning accident statistics along the extended section of the Beltway, cumulative environmental impacts and spacings between the Beltway ramps were on the committee’s agenda, as well as other alternative development scenarios. The committee also wished to hear about updated positions from the cities of College Park and Berwyn Heights.

Committee Members

The committee, which is chaired by county councilmember Samuel Dean, includes Greenbelt’s representative Douglas Peters. Other members are Marilyn Bland, Thomas Dernoga and Peter Shapiro. Only Peters has opposed proceeding with the project. In this position he endorses the City of Greenbelt’s official stand on the Beltway interchange proposal.

Kapistan, Barry Bleckman of the Beltway Hardware Store, Greenbelt Mayor Judith Davis, Berwyn Heights Mayor Patricia Dennison and College Park’s Dorothy Friedman were among the list of visitors attending the work session. So were two members of the local environmental group CCRIC, the Committee to Conserve and Restore Indian Creek.

Three members of the SHA and two from WMATA also attended.

Rivera Letter

Norman Rivera, attorney for Metroland Developers, LLC, who was present as well, like Kapistan and Hendershot had submitted a previous position statement on the Beltway interchange proposal. His letter asserted “that the provision of full access was always a priority of the county.”

Rivera referred to the 1982 General Plan, the 1989 College Park-Greenbelt and Langley Park Plan and the 2001 Greenbelt Sector Plan – all products of the county’s Planning Department – as contemplating full access to the Metro station. “The Greenbelt Station redevelopment tions such as the Boys and Girls Club and the Golden Age Club are proposed to be $72,000. Of this amount projected revenues are $8,500 from ticket and concession sales.

project was not the impetus for the ramp project, the Metro Station was,” his letter says.

This is the point, however, that Kapistan disputes. Kapistan describes the present alternative interchange designs, which are to be “publicly financed,” as operating “solely” to benefit the Greenbelt Station Project. The point is important because interstate ramps, by law, must exit on to public streets not private property.

Greenbelt is primarily opposed to the interchange as compounding the traffic density of the area – both on the Beltway and on the affected city streets. In particular it would increase traffic on Cherrywood Lane and through the residential area of Springhill Lake. Far from enhancing the transit-oriented function of the Metro station, it would in fact bring more cars on to the site, the Greenbelt planning staff predicts.

Greenbelt Station

Greenbelt Station was originally conceived as a high-end retail mall. Over the past several years it has been redesigned, however, as a more modest main street style shopping area and office and residential property. It would also include restaurants and theaters and a natural park area in a wetlands set-aside.

Rivera describes it in positive terms: “It is environmentally sensitive through the permanent preservation of 111 acres of the Indian Creek Stream Valley; removal of the concrete mountain and other debris; stream valley restoration in damaged areas; and the provision of water quality for the untreated runoff emanating from the City of Greenbelt.”

The so-called concrete mountain is debris left on the adjacent A. H. Smith property to the south. The Smith tract would be included with the Metro site in the Greenbelt Station development. The Smith company is a sand-and-gravel operation where in one location the drums of cement mixing trucks were regularly cleaned out.

SHA Schedule

The SHA will now proceed with Stage II of the project planning process for the Beltway interchange. Detailed engineering studies and an environmental document will be prepared and made available prior to the next public hearing, tentatively scheduled sometime next fall.

MVA Will Close

The MVA will close its full service and express offices on Saturday, May 24 and Monday, May 26 in observance of the Memorial Day Holiday. All Vehicle Emissions Inspection Program (VEIP) stations will also be closed.

New Resource Advocate

by Mary Moien

Christal Parker Batey, the city’s new Community Resource Advocate, was formally introduced at the April 14 City Council meeting. Prior to this position, Batey worked for Collington Care Services and the Prince George’s County Department of Aging (now the Department of Family Services). She also served on the city’s Assisted Living Task Force. Batey described a new project that is being submitted to the Maryland Department of Aging in hopes of receiving a grant in FY 2004.

The grant proposal, which was approved for submission by the city council, would create the Greenbelt Senior Information Multi-Media Network. The project would formalize a system of communication for seniors and those who are homebound or disabled. Currently, Bates indicated, some information is published in the News Review, other information may be on the city cable network and some on the city website. She would seek to unify the information.

Batey also described plans for a cable channel call-in show – Seniors Ask the Experts. The grant would help to purchase the phone-in equipment. The shows could also be taped and shown at other locations and summarized for the newspaper. Several groups are already working on ways to participate. St. Hugh’s school has volunteered the use of its computer lab on an occasional basis to help seniors and others screen websites for benefits. Prince George’s Community College has proposed having a caregivers training session in Greenbelt.

Councilmembers welcomed

Senior Survey Needs Help

Greenbelt volunteers are needed to help conduct surveys in Greenbelt through June 30. Also needed are seniors to be surveyed. These surveys will determine necessary services and programs enabling seniors to “age in place.” By aging in place, seniors remain in their present residence for as long as they desire. The survey results will set priorities for future Greenbelt senior programming.

Volunteers should be at least 45 years old. Training will be provided for the surveyors. To volunteer or obtain more information call Gwen Worley at 301-474-8000.

The Greenbelt senior needs survey is a project of the City of Greenbelt’s Assistance in Living Program and funded through the New York-based NORC (Naturally Occurring Retirement Community) Supportive Services Center.

Batey and congratulated her on quickly developing this grant proposal. Batey will be in her office on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Wednesdays from 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Batey’s phone number is 301-474-8000 ext. 105.
